43 Ozark Counties Listed Today
As An Emergency Drouth AreaBenton, Hickory,
Morgan Among Other
Counties On List

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. — Forty-three Missouri Ozark counties were listed as an emergency drouth area today in need of immediate federal relief.

A special committee of agricultural leaders reported drouth conditions to Gov. Phil M. Donnelly after a county by county survey. The governor said he would ask President Eisenhower immediately to declare the area eligible for emergency aid.

Twelve other counties were listed as borderline, in need of help. Three others, in the Southeast Missouri foothills, were reported in need only of federal credit.

Here is that list of 43 counties in the worst shape from prolonged heat and dry weather:

Barton, Jasper, Newton, McDonald, St. Clair, Cedar, Dade, Lawrence, Barry, Benton, Hickory, Polk, Greene, Christian, Stone, Taney, Morgan, Camden, Dallas, LaGrange, Webster and Wright.

Douglas, Ozark, Miller, Maries, Pulaski, Phelps, Texas, Howell, Den, Shannon, Oregon, Iron, Reynolds, Carter, Ripley, Madison, Bollinger, Wayne, Butler, Stoddard and Scott.

The 12 borderline counties—only two of them north of the Missouri River—are:

Cass, Bates, Vernon, Johnson, Henry, Pettis, Cooper, Howard, Boone, Monticello, Cole and Osage.

The three foothill counties where farmers need federal loans are Dunklin, Pemisot and New Madrid.

L. C. Carpenter, state commissioner of agriculture, said other counties would be added later to the emergency area if drouth conditions continue.

For the Ozark area, this is the second straight year of drouth. Many of the counties harvested a good wheat crop but pastures burned during June's record heat and feed crops failed to mature in time.

In much of the area oats had to be cut for forage because of the long drouth.

Donnelly said he would forward a formal request to the President later today and also would advise the state's congressional delegation of the situation.

Today's action was the outgrowth of a meeting here last Wednesday when the state's top farm experts and representatives of farm organizations conferred with Carpenter. At that time several said they thought an easing of federal credit restrictions for farmers would be the only way out for the areas suffering a second straight crop failure.

Donnelly said he would have a formal statement on the situation later today. He released the list of drouth counties after Carpenter and other members of the special committee conferred with him at noon.

23 Cars of MKT
Train Derailed
Near Dearfield

Twenty-three cars of MKT freight train No. 81, southbound, were derailed and went into a ditch near Dearfield, Missouri, about 4 a. m. Tuesday. The train, made up of about 80 cars, was Texas-bound carrying merchandise and other freight including fertilizer, building equipment, automobiles and beer.

It was under the charge of Conductor John Lucas of New Franklin, with J. B. Lyons, Sedalia, as engineer on the Diesel pulling the train.

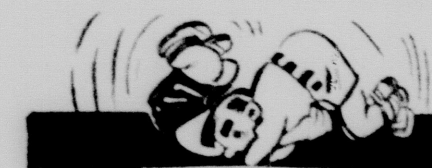

One of the cars, about 12 back from the locomotive, was first to leave the rails, followed by the others that piled up, many of them going into a ditch by the side of the tracks on the right-of-way.

Fortunately, no one was injured. Wrecking crews were rushed to the scene and it is expected the tracks will be cleared and normal service restored some time during Tuesday night.

South-bound Katy passenger train No. 5 was derailed over the Missouri Pacific at Fort Scott, Kan., as a result of the derailment.

Vacation for Rain

It looks like you'll have to follow the lead of others Sedalians and go on a vacation if you want to see some rain. Those who have traveled, even short distances of 15 to 30 miles, have seen rain while the stay-at-homes are getting to the place they have nearly forgotten what a real rain really looks like.

RAIN TONIGHT

Partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday with a thunder-shower likely tonight. Low tonight near 85 and high Wednesday near 80.

The temperature at 7 a. m. was 63; 38 at 2 p. m., and 89 at 3 p. m.

One year ago today high 85, low 71, rain .08 inch. Two years ago high 91, low 68, rain 1.68 inch.

Stage at Lake of the Ozarks: 8.8, no change.

Chinese
Assault
UN LinesReds Throw 6,000
Men In Fanatical
Drive Against
Yank. ROK Troops

SEOUL, Mo. — Chinese Communists intensified day-long assaults on two Allied positions in Western Korea tonight as they hurled some 6,000 men in a fanatical attack against weary American and South Korean defenders.

In what front line officers said was possibly the forerunner of full division attacks, the Reds hurled about 3,000 men each against Pork Chop Hill and Arrowhead Ridge, five miles to the southwest. Earlier today, infantrymen of the U. S. Seventh Division on Pork Chop and ROK Second Division troops on Arrowhead slammed back repeated attacks of some 3,000 Chinese.

The later attacks—described by front-line officers as suicidal assaults—pushed the Americans and South Koreans back momentarily north of Yonchon.

But the sturdy allied infantrymen stormed back through ankle deep mud and regained all their positions in savage fighting with gun butts, knives and pistols.

"We counted 80 dead Chinks in one little piece 150 feet wide," said Col. Hal Randall, senior advisor to the ROK second. "And that's dark."

Snapping four days of rainy silence along the water-soaked battle-front, the Red assault on Pork Chop and Arrowhead opened late last night with a thunderous Communist artillery and mortar barrage.

Simultaneously, both sides—but mainly the Reds—have committed more and more troops.

Pork Chop hill took the brunt of the early red attacks. It was the first big Red assault on an American held position in nearly three weeks.

The Reds fired some 15,000 rounds at Arrowhead before launching the assault.

Once the charges started, Allied artillery hit waves of Chinese sloshing up the muddy slopes in repeated attempts to gain a foothold.

One Red battalion—500-750 men—was caught in the open 900 yards from Arrowhead and blown to pieces with an intense barrage of Allied rockets and artillery.

A tapering-off of heavy rains that all but grounded Allied planes the past three days allowed the Fifth Air Force to send some fighter-bombers roaring over front lines.

Twenty F84 Thunderjets swept low over Red positions in the Kum-sung sector in the West, dropping napalm and high explosives on the Communists.

Night-flying B26 bombers, aided by two C47s lighting up the battle-lines with flares, bombed Red positions near Pork Chop and Arrowhead. Results of the bombings were not evaluated.

Minor ground action was reported southeast of the Kumhwa-Kum-sung road, where Allied guns dispersed a Red attack.

An Eighth Army briefing officer said 34 patrol clashes flared elsewhere along the curved 155-mile front, mostly in the east-central and eastern sectors.

With the rains subsiding, Allied and South Korean authorities began estimating damage caused by the downpours that dropped up to 1/2 inch since Saturday night.

The Korean government estimated that 15,000 persons were temporarily homeless, 2,226 houses flooded, 430 others destroyed, mostly in the provinces southwest of Seoul in Southeast Korea.

Sixteen Koreans were reported dead, six missing and 56 injured.

The Tribune reported that Max Elitcher, 33, identified as a close friend of executed atomic spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, testified in secret before the House Committee on Un-American Activities in New York.

The paper said Elitcher's testimony was heard in secret session at the demand of the Justice Department which asserted national security was involved.

In New York yesterday, committee members declined to identify the witness specifically to newsmen but it was learned he apparently was Elitcher. A committee spokesman would identify the witness only as "a very, very important" one.

The Tribune said Elitcher described how Communist cells infiltrated the Navy, Commerce and Agriculture Departments and identified their members. Most of those named are still in Washington, the paper said, but it is understood all have left the government since 1949.

More Than 7 Miles of Sedalia's
Streets Are to Be Re-sealed

The City Council voted Monday night to award the contract for seal coating Sedalia's streets to the W. J. Menefee Construction Co., at 23 1/2-cents per square yard. More than seven miles of Sedalia's graveled streets will be re-sealed and new graveled streets sealed.

This program, started several years ago, has resulted in Sedalia having practically no dirt streets and each year these streets are being graveled and prepared to be sealed at a later period.

The Council voted the Street and Alley Dept. an additional $15,000 Monday night to be used on the streets. In other words it gave the department more money to get more streets back into good condition. Some of them have been neglected the past few years and are damaged by bad weather.

It will be noted the parking lot at the Bethwell Hospital has been included in the sealing program. Some streets will receive a prime sealing. Others which have had curb and gutter installed will be sealed from curb to curb.

State Troopers
Quell a Riot
In Women's Pen

JESSUPS, Md. — A score of state troopers used clubs and fire hoses this morning to break up a riot of 33 women at the Maryland state reformatory.

The police removed 25 of the women to another cottage and apparently had the others under control after being held at bay for four hours.

The women, all Negroes except one, had barricaded themselves in the cottage and ward off police with pieces of broken furniture, crockery and makeshift knives.

Two women afterwards, locked in their room during the outbreak at the reformatory 10 miles southwest of Baltimore on the highway to Washington, were released unharmed by the troopers.

Martin Sees Ike, Predicts House Group
Will Approve Excess Profits Tax Extension

WASHINGTON, Mo. — Speaker Martin R. Massie predicted after a conference with President Eisenhower today that the House Ways and Means Committee will approve a bill tomorrow to extend the excess profits tax for six months.

Martin made the prediction to newsmen after he and other GOP congressional leaders had reviewed the legislative program at a 75-minute White House session.

The excess profits measure has been blocked in the Ways and Means Committee for weeks because of the refusal of Chairman Reed (R-N.Y.) to call a meeting of the group.

Reed now has set a session of the committee for tomorrow morning, however, and Martin said he believes there are enough votes in the group to send the measure to the House floor.

Reed agreed to a meeting only after House leaders went over his head to the Rules Committee, which voted to bypass the ways and means group and call the bill to the floor for debate.

That course was abandoned after Reed agreed to call a meeting of his committee to consider other matters, Martin said today that while the excess profits measure is not on the agenda for tomorrow, he looks for Rep. Simpson (R-Pa.) to bring up the bill.

Eisenhower has said repeatedly that the excess profits tax must be continued to Jan. 1 to help whittle a spending deficit. The levy expired June 30 but can be renewed retroactively. It applies special rates to corporation earnings, however, and Martin said he believes there are enough votes in the group to send the measure to the House floor.

Council Votes $15,000 More
For Work On City's Streets

Also Orders Ordinance to Prohibit Sale

Or Shooting of Fireworks, Buys X-Ray

Machine for Hospital No. 2; To Spray City

By D. Kelly Scruton

A busy session was had at the regular meeting of the City Council Monday night. The Street and Alley Department was voted an additional $15,000 for street work.

City Counsellor Chester Wolfe was ordered to draft an ordinance to abolish the sale and shooting of fireworks in Sedalia; Hospital No. 2 was voted a new X-ray machine; an ordinance was passed awarding the contract to the Menefee Construction Co., for seal coating city streets; and the "city fathers" voted to spray Sedalia with DDT.

Following the reading of the minutes of the regular meeting of June 15 and the special council meeting of June 27, both of which were approved, the council opened a busy session which lasted more than two hours.

Buy X-Ray Machine
The first move was when Councilman Elmer Summers moved to purchase an X-ray machine for City Hospital No. 2, to replace the machine now in the hospital and not in working condition. Councilman Woodrow Garrison seconded the motion, and it was unanimous vote to make the purchase.

Councilman Summers, chairman of the finance committee, then discussed the Street and Alley Dept. budget which earlier this year was set at $87,492. He explained that additional street work was necessary and due to this he felt, as chairman of the committee, an additional $15,000 should be turned over to that department inasmuch as the city treasury can stand it at this time. His motion was seconded by Councilman C. L. Kelley and it, too, was carried unanimously.

Councilman Aubrey Case, reporting for the Street and Sanitation Dept., announced the city had a verbal agreement with the state giving permission for the city to go ahead with the storm sewer project at Broadway and Snead. The work, he indicated, would be started within a short time.

Spraying Sedalia with DDT was discussed by Councilman Case who moved the city again do the work this year. The motion carried.

To Demonstrate Spraying
At this point of the meeting Robert Wegener, of the Wegener Tree Service, Warrensburg, and Phillip Pfeiffer, of the Pfeiffer Floral Shop, discussed a demonstration of mist spraying of DDT. The demonstration is to take place at 6 p. m. Tuesday at Liberty park, which the council and Mayor Herb Studer stated they would attend.

Wegener explained spray work is being done by his company in Higginsville and Norborne, while various resorts at the Lake of the Ozarks had already been sprayed by the method. Pfeiffer announced he planned to purchase this equipment to be used in this locality.

Councilman Garrison said he personally wanted to see more of Sedalia get the DDT treatment this year, more than was handled in 1952.

Two bids on the seal coating of Sedalia streets were opened by City Clerk Fred Handley. City (Please turn to Page 9 Column 2)

McCarthy announced during a public hearing on other matters that he would have a closed door session this afternoon on this subject.

He quipped that the members could decide "whether to burn the articles or burn the author"—an obvious reference to the cries of "book burning" raised by critics of his investigation of U. S. information libraries overseas.

Matthews' statement as to clergyman and Communists was made in a recently published magazine article, written before Matthews became associated with McCarthy's subcommittee.

Four members of the seven-man group—Sens. Pottenger (R-Mich., McEllan (D-Ark.), Symington (D-Mo.) and Jackson (D-Wash.)—have publicly questioned whether Matthews should now remain on the staff.

McCarthy, in calling the closed door session, said that what Matthews wrote "of course does not represent any thinking of the committee."

He added that there is "no doubt that the clergy of every religion are good loyal Americans," and said he has no intention to investigate the clergy.

The portly, grey-haired Matthews sat at the table near McCarthy as the senator spoke.

McCarthy said he was having photographic copies made of two other articles published previously by Matthews, one of which he said dealt with "infiltration of the teaching profession" and the other with "Communism and the White House," plus a third due to be released later this month.

Asked if he thought the talks had failed, the spokesman replied: "All I can say is that the talks are still continuing."

This new development came from an authoritative South Korean source said efforts to win President Syngman Rhee over to an armistice will fail unless the U. S. comes up with "a new proposal satisfactory to Rhee."

Armistice negotiations have been in recess since June 28 when Rhee freed some 27,000 anti-Red North Korean war prisoners. The truce agreement reportedly was ready to sign.

The liaison officers will meet on the second anniversary of the first meeting to arrange for the truce talks. On July 8, 1951, three U. S. officers flew to Kaesong to open talks the world hoped would lead to a speedy peace.

Gen. Mark Clark, U. N. Far East commander, asked the Communists June 29 to sign a truce even if Rhee refuses to go along. Sen. A. J. Aiken said he had not answered.

President Eisenhower's truce envoy Walter S. Robertson did not meet with Rhee today—the third time in 12 days they have not conferred. The two may meet tomorrow.

deadlocked as a result of Rhee's stubborn insistence that the U. S. "The Rhee-Robertson talks are agree to resume fighting if a post-armistice political conference fails to progress toward peaceful unification of Korea within three months."

Robertson reportedly has told Rhee the U. S. never can meet such a demand.

A well-informed South Korean source said Thursday that no progress toward an agreement can be expected unless Robertson produces a new proposal.

So far, he said, Rhee has rejected U. S. compromise plans because they offer him nothing concrete.

Robertson flew here June 25 in an effort to win South Korea.

One highly competent source said last week that Robertson told Rhee the U. S. would stage a joint walk-out with South Korea from a political conference if the Communists used the talks to shield military operations.

He cited Red infiltration into South Korea as a truce violation which might warrant such a walk-out.

But Rhee reportedly snubbed the offer because it failed to meet his demand for a 90-day time limit.

The South Korean source said Rhee turned down another compromise calling for a joint walkout if the political conference failed to make progress toward peaceful unification of Korea within 90 days.

Then, the source said, the two nations would discuss at top level various methods of unifying Korea, including possible resumption of the war. But any action would have to be ratified by the U. S. Senate.

A U. S. Embassy spokesman in Seoul denied that Robertson had offered such a plan.

But the South Korean source, who is close to the secret talks, swore that it had been offered and rejected because Rhee disliked the provision requiring Senate ratification of any agreed upon action to unify Korea.

The source said the 78-year-old Rhee is adamant in his insistence that the U. S. provide solid guarantees that it will unify Korea either by negotiation or war.

While the talks were in recess, South Korean students and a few elderly folk paraded through the streets of Seoul chanting anti-truce slogans.

Two groups of about 1,000 demonstrators each shouted and waved banners calling for a march to the Yalu River boundary with Manchuria.

Bill to Provide
Emergency Credit
To Farmers Proposed

WASHINGTON, Mo. — A bill to provide emergency credit to farmers and cattlemen hit by drought is on its way to the House from the agriculture committee.

As approved yesterday by the committee, it would provide for federal loans to farmers in disaster areas and special livestock loans to stockmen who raised and credit from regular sources in addition, the bill would release disaster loan funds to furnish feed or seed in drought areas.

In the Senate, however, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, called on Secretary of Agriculture Benson to launch a $18 million aid to use his price support authority to try to stabilize the market.

Johnson said Benson had spoken of farm programs as "disaster insurance" but "it turns out that what he was talking about was 'burial insurance.'"

He added that Rhee is "a venerable patriot who has so courageously down through the years fought for his country" but said Rhee has "carried his claws to show an illogical extreme as to jeopard

Senators Hold Secret Debate Over Communism Among Protestant Clergy

WASHINGTON—A significant backstage battle over McCarthyism will be waged this morning when the McCarthy committee meets behind closed doors to discuss its executive director, J. B. Matthews, and his statement that "the largest single group supporting the Communist apparatus in the United States today is composed of Protestant clergymen."

Matthews, formerly employed by the Hearst newspapers, has recently replaced fair-minded "Frip" Flanagan, who for many years directed the Senate government operations committee of which McCarthy is now chairman. But when the committee meets today it will face a solid phalanx of three Democrats—Jackson of Washington, McClellan of Arkansas and Symington of Missouri—who will demand that Matthews be fired. The three Democrats are outvoted by the four Republicans, but the interesting question will be whether all the Republicans will line up together. For three of the four Republicans are Protestants: Mundt of South Dakota and Potter of Michigan are Methodists; Dirksen of Illinois is a Presbyterian; McCarthy, the chairman, is Catholic.

During the closed-door debate, the Protestant Republicans will have to decide whether to go along with their chairman or with the Protestant churches which have been attacked by Committee Director Matthews. It won't make him popular on Capitol Hill, but Secretary of Defense Wilson has taken to using the term "senator" derisively.

For example, at an off-the-record meeting of aviation moguls at Williamsburg, Va., Wilson delivered a short, pleasant speech, then called for questions from the audience. He got a critical one from ex-Air Force General Joe McNarney, now president of Consolidated Vultee Aircraft.

"I don't know who the hell you are," snapped Wilson, "but you sound like a senator."

To another critical question from ex-Air Force General Al Wedemeyer, Wilson snorted: "Let me tell you, Senator..."

Later, the Secretary of Defense shrugged off another question with the grumpy comment: "That sounds like another stupid senator."

Note—as wind of Wilson's attitude toward senators has drifted. Note—As wind of Wilson's attitude toward senators has drifted. Note—As wind of Wilson's attitude toward senators has drifted.

Field Marshal Alexander of the British Army has urged Gen. Mark Clark to take the unusual step of arresting President Syngman Rhee if he continues to obstruct a truce in Korea. Lord Alexander, who was General Clark's superior during the Italian campaign, says Britain wouldn't have put up with Rhee's defiance for ten minutes if he were in charge of negotiations.

American military men considered the idea of replacing Rhee with the chief of staff of the Korean Army, but President Eisenhower over-ruled them.

Senate Sarcasm

Wealthy, retired Charles Daw of Daytona Beach, Fla., was testifying before the Senate judiciary committee the other day against the appointment of James L. Guilmartin to be U. S. attorney for southern Florida.

"What is your occupation and profession?" demanded Senator Herman Welker, Idaho Republican.

"I do nothing, Sir," replied Daw.

"That is a wonderful occupation," remarked Welker.

"If you need a good partner," broke in Chairman "Wild Bill" Langer of North Dakota, "you could have one in Senator Welker."

Patriotic Congressman GOP Congressman Robert Kean of New Jersey, who is leading the fight inside the House ways and means committee to extend the excess profits tax, stands to lose $20,000—if he wins his fight. For Kean will have to pay an extra $20,000 on the excess profits of his bank, the Livingston National Bank of Livingston, N. J. That's $5,000 more than his total congressional salary.

Yet the congressman has unhesitatingly urged that the tax be continued and is one of the few Republicans inside the ways and means committee voting against Dan Reed.

Murder In The Pentagon

It begins to look as if "Murder in the Pentagon" was not just the title of a detective story or a TV drama. Finding the decomposed body of John S. Johnson, a Negro mail clerk, in the trunk of his car now casts serious suspicion on the manner in which Lee E. Harden, a trusted Negro guard, was found dead at the bottom of a locked "security" elevator shaft two months ago.

His body was not mangled by the elevator, but appeared beaten up. However, his hand was clutching the key to the elevator as if he had unlocked the elevator doors himself, and he was declared a suicide. On the other hand, the guards did not carry revolvers that day, presumably because of an inspection; and it was significant that Harden had earlier participated in a raid on some government lockers where he uncovered evidence implicating one Pentagon employee in the numbers racket. It is also believed that Johnson's murder resulted from numbers racket revenge.

FBI and Security Police were called in to check how an off-duty guard could have got into an elevator shaft. A Virginia state police officer expressed the opinion that it was a lottery murder, but despite this, the verdict was suitably ominous.

Earlier, a head Pentagon guard had been relieved on the suspicion that he was shaking down the guards were also taking numbers bets.

Note—naturally it looks bad for Pentagon Security Police to have a murder committed right under their noses. Maybe the Communists could operate under their noses also.

Guns And Brass

Secretary of Defense Wilson and Deputy Secretary Kyes deliberated, snubbed Air Force Chief of Staff General Hoyt Vandenberg when he retired. They sent the man he hates most, Assistant Secretary McNeill, the man who cut the Air Force budget, to represent the Defense Department at Vandenberg's retirement ceremony.

Secretary of Defense Wilson has ordered the new Joint Chiefs of Staff to spend a week together at the Quantico Marine base this month—just to get acquainted.

Why the Arabs Hate Us—

Arabs More Interested In Rubbing Out Zionists Than In Worrying About Reds

EDITOR'S NOTE. The Arab World, from North Africa to Iran, seethes with anti-Western hatred that endangers our air and land bases and threatens the vital flow of half the globe's oil production. To get an eyewitness viewpoint of the troubled desert areas, NEA Correspondent Fred Sparks has been traveling for more than a month through North Africa, Egypt and the Levant. This is the second of three dispatches in which he sums up the major problems.

CAIRO — "We must drive the Jews into the sea! Until then we will not be able to walk proudly before our Lord."

So spoke an Oxford-educated Egyptian officer, tapping the one remaining finger of his right hand on the table, the others were blown off in the war against Israel. His massive Sudanese batman, wearing gold earrings, served him tea as the officer calmly discussed the "inevitable second round," an other battle to break the back of the new Jewish state.

More passionately, his words are daily repeated in the newspapers, mosques and bazaars of all Arabia with symbolically waving swords.

John Foster Dulles, who recently found Islam for the State Department in 20 flying days, discovered an apparent amazement that Arabs are more interested in rubbing out Zionists than worrying about Communists.

It is not merely adventurous, for on the Arab side there is genuine fear that Israel plans to dominate the economy of the Arabian Gulf—of the Middle East. Arab blockade committees comb ships, planes and camel caravans cutting all trade from Israel. The blockade hurts, despite some fancy smuggling.

Ex-German officers, rebuilding the Egyptian army, gladly show how the desert tricks of Marshal Rommel could be used in "the second round."

Farmers on both sides of the Israel-Jordan border huddle around stockades like our early Western pioneers as nightly frontier raiders loot, burn and kill. All concerned shiver when the UN pleads "Knock it off."

Another whack at Israel will surely be more thoroughly planned than last time, when loosely-knit Arab legions wheeled off to war firing "joy" shots in the air as if they were charging 13th Century Crusaders. When they smacked a modern European force they collapsed like ducks buzzing a hunter. Egypt, the largest Arab state, has an all-army government sworn to make the Nile Delta a base for the toughest troops between Turkey and China.

The head man, Mohammed Naguib, thrice hit by Jewish bullets, used public shame over the lost war to seize power.

Israel's other neighbors, Syria and Lebanon, are studying armament catalogues and Jordan and Iraq are improving their British-trained units.

Thus it's easy to see why Israel shrieks when the Pentagon talks about arming Arabs against a possible Russian gobble for their oil fields. The Jews say: "Once the Arabs get your shooting irons they'll practice on us!"

Although talking less, Israel has kept itself well heeled with the latest model military machines, even though it depends on endless U. S. handouts for a slim living.

There are many extremists in Haifa and Tel Aviv who eye the adjoining Arab real estate with envy. Countless UN reports show neither side a candidate for the Nobel peace prize.

An Arab can't help hating Israel because he can't stop seeing the 800,000 refugees who lost their Palestine homes during the conflict. Israel won't let them return, fearing a fifth column, and dirt-poor Arab nations can't spare land or jobs. The U. S. feeds 70 per cent their 1500 calories daily—barely enough to keep an active man slightly alive.

Drive around Jordan, Lebanon, Syria or Egypt and you'll pass their filthy tent cities, where the dead are buried in shallow graves without the final dignity of coffin or canvas wrapping.

The Arabs save plenty of hate for the U. S., blamed for allowing private American purses to bankrupt the original Jewish drive and skipping over the UN in subtle Russian gobble for their oil fields. The Jews say: "Once the

The King of Saudi Arabia won't let the Arabian American Oil Co. have one American of Jewish extraction among its 6900 U. S. employees working the precious petrol pumps.

All told, this wandering news-note in the home of the Koran and Islam finds the five-year-old Jewish state still ringed by hostility, certainly not accepted as a "good neighbor."

School for Bridgegrooms Seen As Need to Prepare Husbands

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

A crying need of the times is a school for bridgegrooms.

In this era when so many wives help earn the living, a new code of marriage manners and mores should be set up. No longer is it sufficient that the husband promise to love, honor and cherish his bride. Other points that should be settled before the ceremony are as follows:

1. Can he cook his own dinner when his bride has to work late at the office?
2. Is he willing to help wash the dishes after both get home from a hard day at work?
3. Will he darn his own socks while she mends her nylon's?
4. Will he complain if his wife's business requires that she entertain important customers occasionally away from home?

This question of the proper husband for a career woman gets some frank appraisal in a current article by Jean Libman Block in Glamour magazine. The author admitted the overseas libraries were propaganda agencies, the book-burning issue would evaporate. No one contends, for instance, that the Voice of America, which is frankly a propaganda medium for the government, should broadcast the propaganda of Lenin, Stalin or Marx or slip in the Communist propaganda of the Daily Worker.

If the State Department once admitted the overseas libraries were propaganda agencies, the book-burning issue would evaporate. No one contends, for instance, that the Voice of America, which is frankly a propaganda medium for the government, should broadcast the propaganda of Lenin, Stalin or Marx or slip in the Communist propaganda of the Daily Worker.

Just what is the purpose of these overseas libraries? Are they, basically, meant to be propaganda agencies of the U. S. government? or are they meant to be libraries in the highest sense of the word, which might be defined this way:

A place where a man can find on the open shelves the whole range of mankind's thinking—the hateful idea as well as the benevolent, the radical and revolutionary and the conservative, the authoritarian and the democratic, one idea lined up against another—and exercise his right as a free man to examine, judge, accept or reject as he pleases.

Removal of books because of their content or authorship from that kind of a library would be an act of intellectual tyranny or cowardice. But no one is seriously suggesting or pretending that the U. S. overseas libraries are meant to be libraries in that highest sense.

Eisenhower himself has emphasized the overseas libraries are special-purpose libraries. This he said, restricts the selection of books to those which depict the American way of life and further U. S. interests abroad.

But a library set up to depict the American way of life and further U. S. interests abroad brings it pretty close to being a propaganda agency.

PETE thought for a moment, then said slowly: "There's a wagon train on the way captured by Nate Wilkins and it'd be a real haul for Zad Barnes. He'll need Tobey's Indians to loot it."

"That's a fact," said Jess Wilkins. "He wouldn't try it without Tobey and his Indians."

"Then Tobey'll be back," Pete said, thinking aloud rather than talking to the old outlaw. "What's more Zad will know that Nate and I will be back, and he'll want us to see Betty if he can capture us. His mind runs like that."

"I reckon that's what he'd like to do," Jess agreed.

"Listen, Jess if we're to help Betty you've got to tell me all you know."

"I don't know much," the old man said. "Late years I ain't done nothing much except run this ranch for Zad, and try to perfect Betty as much as possible. Course I know what's been going on, and how Zad has got rich workin' the Indians, and a few white outlaws robbin' emigrants."

"That's not much help. I already know that."

"I know somethin' about the slave trade too," Jess said shamefacedly. "It's somethin' even Zad ain't proud of, but he does it to keep Tobey in line."

"I don't think he'd be above anything, but what about it?"

"It used to be big business. The Mexicans used to come up here what kind of people she was—she was a Utes and other strong tribes captured from the weak ones like Tobey or Juan Chee."

Pete Morrison nodded. He had out long suspected what old Jess told him, but the words filled in many for the man would waste little time in details. "Tell me more, Jess," he said.

"Mebbe you seen a Navaho named Juan Chee down there. He's a scout for the slave traders, Renegade from his own people, I hear. He hangs out around Two Rivers, and when there are slaves you enough Zad makes the deal, and Tobey delivers 'em some place where Chee has his people waitin'."

"Zad meant to sell Walter to 'em, although he's older than they want. They run 'em into Mexico."

"A fine business! Is there any chance at all Barnes will try to sell Betty to Chee?"

"He can't. He's promised her to Tobey."

"You're sure Betty isn't in Two Rivers yet?"

"I know she ain't."

PETE was at the end of his rope. Searching for the girl in a territory that covered hundreds of square miles would be useless. He asked: "Does Zad himself know where she is?"

"I doubt it. But if he did you couldn't make him tell if you broiled him over a slow fire," Jess said positively.

It was hard for Pete to accept defeat, especially when it meant what it did. But another successful raid on Zad Barnes' stronghold had not been enough. He was Rivers. It would cost him his life.

Cass was smart. She would know enough to tear off and destroy the postscript to protect Jess Wilkins, and keep the main body of the note which in case of need she could show Zad Barnes as an ugly woman on kids that the thing among. If she angered Barnes evidence that she had no use for Utes and other strong tribes captured from the weak ones like Tobey or Juan Chee."

At least Cass Dean's need for help was not so urgent as Betty's, kind of fate that had overtaken her. She was adroit enough to bands out here on the desert, so realized that Betty would still handle Barnes so long as he was he gathers up all the kids he can have the preference. Cass had got not suspicious of her. And Cass and sells 'em."

Pete Morrison nodded. He had out long suspected what old Jess told him, but the words filled in many for the man would waste little time in details. "Tell me more, Jess," he said.

He could expect Nate back soon, but the words filled in many for the man would waste little time in details. "Tell me more, Jess," he said.

Bible School Closes With Picnic at Park

The Daily Vacation Bible School of the Green Ridge Presbyterian Church closed Sunday morning, July 5, with a short program presented by the children which was followed by a brief morning worship service by the pastor Rev. J. G. W. Kirschner. "What Do You Mean Liberty?" Following the services the members and their families drove to Liberty Park in Sedalia where they enjoyed a picnic dinner.

Mrs. D. D. Davis was superintendent of the Vacation Bible School. There were eight classes of children, four Bible classes and four Art classes.

The teachers were as follows: Mrs. J. G. W. Kirschner, Misses Morna Jean Kirschner, Carol DeCuster, Kathryn Weller, Mary Beth Anderson, Shelly Sue Morrow, Freddie Mae Flene and Agnes Iman.

Drought State Governors Set For Meeting

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Governors of five drought-stricken states will meet in Amarillo, Tex., Friday to discuss what state governments might do to help farmers and livestock men fight the Southwestern disaster.

Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas announced the meeting yesterday as arguments over drought aid raged in Congress and among cattlemen. Sections of Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Kansas and New Mexico are in their fourth year of drought with pastures dried to dust and crops destroyed.

No rain was reported in Texas yesterday and temperatures climbed above 100 degrees over much of the state. At Shivers' request, Texas ministers had led their congregations Sunday in prayers for rain.

The Texas disaster relief director said 77 communities in the state have been forced to ration water. Director William L. Mott warned of a public health problem from water obtained from "questionable sources."

Panhandle cattlemen invited stockmen from four other states to meet them in Dalhart, Tex., Thursday to urge direct price supports. O. H. Finch Sr., a Kansas and Texas rancher, accused directors of the big livestock associations of being rich from oil "they can afford rugged individualism."

He said the directors are so rich or have other financial interests that they can do all right regardless of cattle prices.

"They aren't making a living from cattle," Finch said. "They can afford rugged individualism." S. E. Brown, a Dalhart banker and cattlemen, said 95 per cent of the rank and file of cattlemen want price supports. He said the stand of livestock associations against supports reflected only the opinions of the officers and directors of the associations.

Governors expected to take part in the Amarillo discussion are Don Thornton of Colorado, Edward F. Arn of Kansas, Johnson Murray of Oklahoma, Edwin L. Mechem of New Mexico and Shivers. Secretary of Agriculture Benson, who made a first-hand inspection of the Texas drought situation June 27, will be invited to send a representative to the governor's meeting.

In the Senate, Minority Leader Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) called on Benson to launch a 118 million dollar cattle aid program. He charged the administration plan to provide eight million dollars in aid was "just enough to handle the remaining assets and (give the rancher) a coach ticket out of the disaster area."

A statement from Benson urged cattlemen to go slow in selling off their herds in a "mistaken belief" that the price outlook is hopeless. The House Agriculture Committee approved a bill to provide emergency credit to farmers and stockmen.

Says Reds Have Bases to Provide More Korea War

BILOXI, Miss. (AP)—Gen. Nathan F. Twining said today the Communists now have enough air power and bases in Manchuria to permit a "rapid concentration of much larger" forces near the borders of Korea.

Or, if they chose, they could disperse their present units more widely, the new air force chief of staff said. The Communists are "rotating green pilots through the Yalu training ground so rapidly," Twining said, that "most of them cannot match our fewer but more experienced pilots."

In a speech for the Mississippi American Legion convention, Twining stressed the Communists' willingness to pay a high price to give training and experience to the largest possible numbers of air crews:

"They are willing to lose as many as 15 in one day just for the valuable experience that the several hundred others who manage to get back to Manchuria will receive in these struggles."

Twining said the Chinese Air Force is constantly absorbing new Russian planes, including piston-powered medium bombers and a larger number of light jet bombers.

He contrasted the costly training program of the Communists with the difficulties the U. S. Air Force now has in holding trained men. The re-enlistment rate for the most highly skilled U. S. Air Force men is down to about 15 per cent, the general said. Poor housing at some stations and the greater pay offered by civilian industry, Twining added, explain air force difficulty in holding trained personnel.

Twining foresaw more manpower problems for the air force next year through the loss of large numbers of men who began four-year enlistment shortly after the start of the Korean War.

Former Tax Collector Begins Serving Term

DANBURY, Conn. (AP)—Former Boston Internal Revenue Collector Denis W. Delaney began serving a year and a day sentence yesterday in the federal correctional institution here for accepting a $2,500 tax bribe.

Fired in 1951 by President Truman, Delaney was accused of accepting a check from a Daniel Friedman of New York in 1949 to influence the collection of money in a tax delinquency case.

Delaney also was fined $5,000, which he paid last Friday, after pleading guilty to the charge June 26. He is serving a concurrent six months' sentence for evasion of $2,187 in federal income taxes for 1949. He will be eligible for parole in four months.

Gifts and Offers Of Adoption Rush To Boy Escapee

BERLIN (AP)—Gifts and offers of adoption are showering on an 11-year-old East German boy from Americans touched by the story of his dramatic escape through the Iron Curtain.

Two American families want to adopt little Peter Von Dekowitzky. A group of Birmingham, Ala., school children sent him gifts totaling $103.

Peter, an orphan, was living with his aged grandmother when she fell critically ill during the bloody East German workers' revolt last month. To escape a Communist orphanage, Peter fled to West Berlin. Communist police, moved to temporary kindness, let him through the border barricade of tanks and guns.

But when Peter reached his aunt in West Berlin, he found her jobless. She didn't know how she could support him.

His aunt smiled with relief—and Peter shouted with joy—today when he learned of the children's gift.

"Oh, how nice of those children," he said. "Why, that's so much money I can hardly carry it."

Peter doesn't know yet about the offers of adoption. But his aunt, 26-year-old Miss Taglana von Dekowitzky, is seriously considering the offers.

"I want to keep Peter," she said. "But even with this help it will be hard. And it might be best for Peter if he found a new and better home in America."

One adoption offer came from Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. McCumber of St. Paul, Minn.

"We would like a son, and it occurred to us that perhaps Peter would like a family," Mr. McCumber wrote.

The other came from a San Jose, Calif., ship's captain who asked that his name not be disclosed.

Ike May Send Nixon to Asia For Goodwill

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower is contemplating sending Vice President Nixon on a trip to Asia as a goodwill ambassador after Congress adjourns.

Although plans still are in the formative stage, those who report the President's intention said the State Department is working on an itinerary which would take the vice president to most of the non-Communist countries in the Far East in what might wind up eventually as a trip around the world.

Eisenhower was said to be well pleased by results obtained by Secretary of State Dulles and Mutual Security Director Harold Stassen on a recent trip to the Near East. The President apparently believes Nixon could help iron out some rough spots in U. S. relations with Asiatic countries.

Crewmen Removed From Grounded U.S. Freighter

PUSAN, Korea (AP)—Navy small craft removed 47 crewmen from the grounded American freighter Cornhusker Mariner today, leaving only the captain and six men aboard the ultramodern cargo carrier.

Rescue tugs were rushing to the scene.

The big 14,000-ton freighter, grounded the past year at a cost of seven or eight million dollars, was slammed by heavy seas and Lighthouse Rock as she was anchored off Pusan harbor early today.

Two tugs put lines aboard the high-speed freighter in the morning and were trying to hold her from pounding to pieces on the rocks. The Navy said the ship was in "dangerous condition," but there was a chance to save her.

Despite huge groundswells that pounded the ship, the 47 crewmen were removed with accident.

Remaining aboard were the skipper, Capt. Nicholas Telesmanic, and an emergency watch of these six men.

Chief Mate Helmut E. Bauer, New Canaan, Conn.; Chief Engineer George Hanson, Island Heights, N. J.; Second Mate Herbert L. Babbitt, Taunton, Mass.; Radio Operator Roger C. Kanev, Forreston, Ill.; Seaman John F. Higgins, Somerville, Mass.; and Seaman Donald Kissel, Cliff Side Park, N. J.

Indict Labor Leader Over Racketeering

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Owen L. Femmer, former business representative of the AFL-Laborers district Council, was indicted on two perjury charges today by a federal grand jury that previously indicted several union officials on charges of labor racketeering.

Femmer, who lives in St. Charles, was accused of testifying falsely before the grand jury that he did not attend a 1949 meeting at which payment of money to labor leaders or labor unions to straighten out labor difficulties was discussed.

That indictment charged that Femmer attended the meeting "at which representatives of the Anderson Brothers Corp. agreed to pay a sum of money to Femmer to insure labor harmony."

A second count charged Femmer committed perjury when he testified again that he had not agreed with the firm regarding payment of money by the company to insure labor harmony on a pipe line project.

Femmer resigned his job with the union's Eastern Missouri district council several years ago to enter the contracting business.

His bond was fixed at $10,000 by Federal Judge George H. Moore.

One of 10 Most Wanted Gets Life

POPLAR BLUFF (AP)—Gordon Lee Cooper, who was on the FBI's list of the 10 most wanted criminals when he was arrested in St. Louis last month, was sentenced yesterday to a life term in the Missouri penitentiary.

"That's a hell of a lot of time," Cooper observed after Circuit Judge Randolph H. Weber imposed sentence. The 32-year-old Cooper pleaded guilty to a charge of robbery by force.

The charge grew out of Cooper's escape from the Butler County jail May 27, 1952. Another prisoner was captured in the jail break but Cooper made good his escape after severely beating a deputy sheriff with a home-made blackjack and taking $180 from him.

The deputy, Leonard Landreth, was hospitalized several days with a skull injury.

Cooper, a former resident of Painton, Mo., has a long criminal record.

Jana Sue Franke, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl and Mike Morris, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring bearer.

Mrs. Morris wore a dress of navy blue linen with matching accessories complemented with white carnation corsage. Mrs. Franke was attired in a light blue cheer dress with navy accessories and a corsage of white carnations was pinned at her left shoulder.

A dinner was served to fifty guests at Mother Anne's in Kansas City. Bouquets of mixed flowers decorated the tables and the bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake.

When the couple left on a trip to the Lake of the Ozarks the bride was wearing a navy blue linen suit with white poodle cloth jacket and white accessories. Her ensemble was completed with a corsage of red roses.

They are now at home at 3323 Ames, Kansas City. The bride attended Sacred Heart High School and was a comptometer operator at Sinclair Oil in Kansas City.

How to Cope With Shiny Nose

By Vivian Brown
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

Is my face shiny?

That's a question women have asked other women since the days of Cleopatra, we presume.

And today the situation hasn't changed a bit. One beauty expert Hollywood's Max Factor Jr. says lovely movie stars have this problem too. Only the ladies of cinema-makeup use a trick to master the basic strategy of this shine-fighting. He offers these Hollywood pointers to keep that shine at bay. 1. Strip your face of every trace of cleansing-cream before you apply make-up, using either skin-freshener or astringent. The difference between the two depends on whether your skin is dry or oily. (During the summer both types of skins can ooze out plenty of oil, according to Factor.)

2. While removing all traces of oil from your face make sure your cotton pad, dampened by skin-freshener or an astringent, goes around the curve of the nostrils and up to the edge of the eye openings. These are the little areas which can harbor small traces of cream after cleansing, developing into larger areas of shine as your skin warms up with a rising thermometer during the day.

3. If you add a blush to your cheeks during warm weather use dry rouge, not cream rouge. The dry rouge will put a convincing blush on your cheeks and is less likely to explode into a shine.

4. The more dull-surfaced your make-up foundation is, the quicker your powder puff will kill a shine when you notice it. But if you puff on loose powder, the entire face must be retouched.

5. If you need to blot up a shine in only one area as say the nose a creamy cake or powder in compact form might do the trick. This cake powder gives mat-like touch-ups to the combination dry and oily skin.

6. Powder cakes which combine foundation and face powder in your own skin tint should give you a touch up which shouldn't cake, dry, or give the appearance of being built up even if skin acids do get a whack at your makeup.

LOOK, NO SHINE — A compact combination of cake powder and foundation helps to fight a shiny face.

Rotary-Elks Play Extra Frames Before Leaders Win Close Tilt

Rotary clung to the lead of the National division of the Little League majors Monday night with a 7 to 6 win over the Elks in an 8-inning affair that was by far the most interesting tilt of the season.

In the other game the Jaycees squeaked the Kiwanis 12 to 1. The Elks scored six runs in the third to take a big lead over the Rotarians, but the latter squad plugged along, scored two runs in each of two frames and one more in another before tying the count at 6-all in the last of the sixth. Neither team scored in the first extra inning, but in the bottom of the 8th Herrick singled with one out, took second on a passed ball and scored the winning tally when Brenner drove him home with a single down the first base line.

Herrick started for Rotary and was relieved by Nichols in the third. Nicky pitched probably the best game of his life in the remaining five frames, striking out 8 Elks and issuing only two walks, one intentional.

Gates went all the way for the Elks and had the Rotarians swinging at the wind much of the time. Walks were his downfall as five of Rotary's seven runs were put on base via the free ride.

This game had more intentional walks than any of the season since the managers were instructing their hurlers to give free passes to get to weaker hitters or set up plays for any base.

The Jaycees took complete control in the second game with Mulcahey pitching and keeping the Jaycees at bay. He had good support from his hitting mates, who took advantage of the wildness of Ray, the Kiwanis hurler. Mulcahey was his own best hitter, getting 3 for 3. Bredwell had 3 for 4 and all three were doubles.

Friday's Games

Adco went back into a tie for first place in the American division of the Little League majors Friday night with a 1-0 victory over the Lions. In the second game the Optimists blasted the Democrat-Capital boys almost off the lot with a 14-1 decision.

Both teams beat out three hits in the first game with the Optimists taking the decision on a double by Spieler that scored Hopkins, who had walked.

Gillum pitched for Adco and had the Lions tamed all the way. Hannigan started for the Lions and gave up 1 hit in two innings. In the third, when he got in trouble, Coffey came in and fanned two batters to end the Adco threat.

He fanned the first two batters to face him in the fourth and then walked Hopkins. Spieler's double spelled the ball game at that point.

Optimists crawled from the cellar by squeaking the Newsboys in the second tilt. Wertz, making his first start of the season, had the Democrat-Capital team off stride all the way, getting only three hits. The winners had nine hits including doubles by Wallace, Albertson and Lawrence.

Mantle or Matheus Greatest? Both Are Top Drawing Cards

NEW YORK (AP)—Who is greater? Mickey Mantle or Eddie Matheus? The argument may never be settled but all agree that the 23-year-old New York Yankee and Milwaukee Brave sluggers are a cinch to become the biggest draw-in cards in their respective leagues.

Astrologists probably would point out that Mantle and Matheus, born one week apart in October, 1931, each in the Southwest, came under the benign influence of a star of fortune. Mickey was born in Spavina, Okla., and Matheus in Texas.

Each came up to the major leagues before he was of voting age. Each put in less than two full seasons in the minors. Each literally grew up in big leagues. Since Mantle joined the Yankees two years ago, he has added 20 pounds to his original 175 and grew from 5-foot-10 to a quarter of an inch under six feet. Eddie has added 15 pounds and one inch to an even 260 and 6-1.

Each is endowed with exceptional strength and ability to hit the ball for long distances which has prompted their backers to make extravagant claims for them. And in the same week of April, 1952, each hit a home run that was described as the most potent ever struck in that particular park.

Somebody put a tape measure to Mantle's monumental clout out of Griffith Stadium in Washington last April 17 and said it stopped rolling 562 feet from home plate. Nobody took the same pains to figure Matheus' wallop out of Wrigley Field, Chicago, April 22, but it cleared the bleachers to the right of centerfield with some 40 feet to spare. It was estimated the ball traveled close to 500 feet in the air.

Unquestionably, Mantle and Matheus are two of the most powerfully constructed players in the game today.

Mantle's back muscles, forearms and legs would delight a talent scout for the prize money. He gets most of his power from his back and shoulders. He swings with his entire body and simply overpowers the ball when he hits it.

Matheus' swing is reminiscent of the lash of a bull whip. He doesn't stroke the ball—he hits it. The tremendous power is generated by his strong wrists. They allow him to swing at the last second. Eddie is one of the few left-handed batters who can pull an outside pitch over the right field wall.

Schlitz Leaders Blast Jeff City Team by 20 to 1

Schlitz Leaders, who go to Carrollton tonight to meet the Merchants' softball team of that city, won a 20-1 victory over Jefferson City Electrical Workers Sunday night at Center Park diamond.

The Leaders exploded in the fifth frame of the Sunday affair, blasting out three homers and 11 other hits for an even dozen runs. Leuck, Norvell and Evans all had 4-baggers in the inning and Evans' was his second round tripper of the night.

Grabbing a two run lead in the first, the Sedalia put the game on ice with five more in the fourth and then shoved it into the deep freeze with that big fifth. It was also in the fifth that the Jeff City team got its only run off Sanders, the Leaders' moundsman.

Sanders gave up only five hits while his mates backed him with 19 safeties, 11 of them coming in the 12 run blast in the fifth.

The distance—hitting Dodgers equalled the National League record for home runs in consecutive games when Carl Furillo, Gil Hodges and Billy Cox connected against the Pirates. The Dodgers have hit one or more homers in 19 straight games.

The Giants' fans who were still gloating over their one-sided Sunday success against Brooklyn received additional thrills in the brilliant pitching of Worthington, a former Alabama football player who pitched for the Yankees last season. Worthington, who brought up a reputation of wildness, walked four batters, but one was intentional. He had a full 3-2 count on all the others before he lost them.

"The kid looked good," praised Steve O'Neill, Phillies' manager. "He showed me a fast ball that's alive. He also has a pretty good slider. Better yet, he showed the poise of a veteran on the mound."

"Great, great, great," enthused Leo Durocher, Giant manager. "That gives us a much needed added starter. Now if Marty Grissom (purchased from Boston's Red Sox last week) can win, our pitching will be in fine shape."

Yesterday's Games—

Browns Lose Old, Maybe A New Home

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sports Writer
The St. Louis Browns may be losing themselves right out of a new home. At least they're doing a thorough job of losing in their old one.

Going into tonight's game with the pennant-aspiring Cleveland Indians, the hapless Browns are all even with the major league record for consecutive defeats in their own park.

They dropped No. 19 last night, an 11-inning 8-7 struggle with the Detroit Tigers. Only the Boston Red Sox of 1906 lost that many games in a row at home. The Browns' last victory in St. Louis was June 2 when they beat Washington in the first game of their previous home stand.

Such a distressing record might well chill the enthusiasm of the several minor league cities which have been seeking the Browns franchise. Owner Bill Veeck tried and failed in March to move to Baltimore. Only last night he said he didn't plan to revive the proposal at the American League meeting next Monday.

Before the season opened Veeck said he would need to draw about 750,000 fans to meet expenses. In 40 games only 193,939 have shown up, including the 2,184 who came last night to see Ray Boone homer in the 11th to break up the game.

The Browns have now slipped to 40th place in the American League cellar on the basis of 193,939 fans. The Tigers, which most folks thought the Browns had a more or less full-season lease.

Cleveland took over second place by defeating Chicago, 6-3, but lost half a game in its pursuit of the front-running New York Yankees, who won twice from Philadelphia, 10-5, and 5-3. The Indians now trail by 6½ and the White Sox by 7½.

Brooklyn leads Milwaukee by two games and the Cardinals by 3½.

Mickey Mantle, sidelined with a bad leg and ordered by doctors to rest at least another week, showed up as a pinch hitter for the Yankees and hit a grand slam home run in the first game. Allie Reynolds who went back to the bullpen after another failure Sunday as a starter, came to Vic Raschi's rescue in the second game and received credit for his seventh victory.

The distance—hitting Dodgers equalled the National League record for home runs in consecutive games when Carl Furillo, Gil Hodges and Billy Cox connected against the Pirates. The Dodgers have hit one or more homers in 19 straight games.

The Giants' fans who were still gloating over their one-sided Sunday success against Brooklyn received additional thrills in the brilliant pitching of Worthington, a former Alabama football player

Suggest Probe By Congress Over Condon

WASHINGTON (P)—Rep. Keating (R-N.Y.) today suggested a congressional committee investigation to determine whether the Atomic Energy Commission acted properly in barring Rep. Condon (D-Calif.) from witnessing an atom bomb test.

Rep. Price (D-Ill.), a member of the Senate-Atomic Energy Committee, termed the barring of the representative, which Condon said was since rescinded, "very unfortunate." Price added, "I don't think there was any occasion for it."

A Washington dispatch to the New York Herald Tribune said today that Condon "has been under study as a security risk by the military services as well as by the Atomic Energy Commission."

Condon, meanwhile, saying the commission's action could mean "political suicide" to him unless it was thoroughly understood in his home district, announced he would take the House floor, probably this week, "to make a full and public statement as to my position."

The California freshman lawmaker said in an interview yesterday he was one of nearly 100 congressmen who accepted an invitation extended to all members of Congress to witness an atomic explosion in Nevada last May.

He said two men met him at Las Vegas and "told me I could not see the test because of security reasons."

Later, Condon said, former Chairman Gordon Dean of the Atomic Energy Commission admitted "some sort of mistake." Condon said, "My status with the commission now is the same as any other member of this Congress."

Keating, a member of the House Judiciary Committee and chairman of a subcommittee which is investigating the Justice Department said in an interview:

"I suppose the executive branch has the power to exclude any member of the legislative body from access to information of a sensitive character. That happens all the time. None of us are given all the information some executive branches have. But in this case, I would think that in this specific case, Rep. Condon would want to have an opportunity of a complete hearing before an appropriate committee of Congress, to determine whether the executive branch acted properly in excluding him from this information."

"It seems to me he is entitled to such a hearing, if he requests it."

The Atomic Energy Commission maintained a strict silence on the incident.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty also declined comment, saying it is "entirely a matter for the Atomic Energy Commission." He said the White House had no advance information on the barring of Condon.

Keating suggested any investigation could be conducted by the judiciary committee or a subcommittee, the atomic committee or a special committee appointed by House Speaker Martin (R-Mass.), who said he plans no inquiry unless Condon asks for one.

Condon said he was "outraged" by the ban. He quoted Dean as saying the FBI had a report on him, Condon said he assumed this report stemmed from "a rash of state political charges."

The lawmaker said his political foes have accused him of connections with left-wing organizations. He said a law firm with which he formerly worked represented some unions considered left wing and he made some speeches "which people didn't appreciate."

Condon said he "definitely" is not sympathetic to any Communist or Communist front causes.

The Herald Tribune dispatch, by Bert Andrews, said it was learned yesterday that the military had been checking on Condon.

Andrews wrote that authoritative sources disclosed copies of the FBI file on Condon which was made available to the AEC have been under study by the military. The story also said:

"Officials were close-mouthed about it, but this firm with which Condon was at one point thought of canceling a ship-launching ceremony at which Rep. Condon was the speaker because it had received the same information the AEC had. The Navy changed its mind."

The launching of the minesweeper USS Bluebird went off on schedule May 11—six days after Condon had been told he could not see the atom test. The launching was at Mare Island Navy Yard at Vallejo, Calif., and Condon made the dedication speech.

A well-informed source said that later the Navy notified the commanders of all naval districts that Condon "was in effect, to be considered persona non grata."

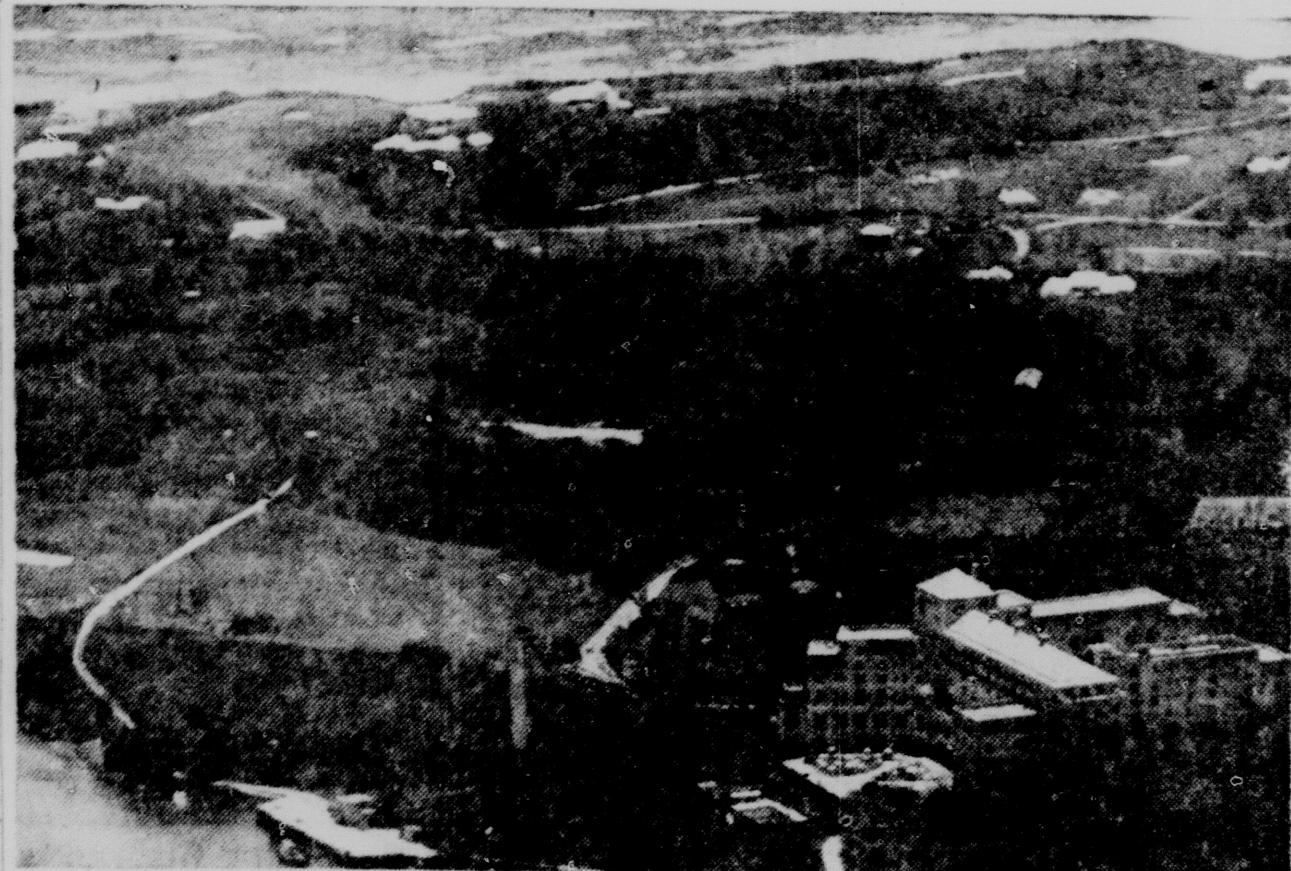

The Navy would not confirm the report yesterday. Such a notification ordinarily would be classified as secret.

An Army source said there was "something in the mill" concerning Condon.

The Air Force made no statement.

The Herald Tribune story referred to Condon's statement that his status with the AEC is now the same "as any other member of this Congress," and said:

"This statement was contradicted subsequently by a source in a position to know, who said that

2nd Warrant Charges Mother Used Child In Striking Woman

Prosecuting Attorney Harold Barrick will go to Kansas City Thursday to take part in a habeas corpus procedure in the court of Judge Strother.

The proceedings resulted from faulty information received by Barrick on an assault charge against Mrs. Vivian Walker, Kansas City. Barrick issued a warrant for Mrs. Walker under the name of Vivian Martin. This name had been given by mistake.

When Sheriff John Taylor went to Kansas City July 1, to pick up Mrs. Walker, with the warrant bearing the incorrect name, Mrs. Walker's lawyer filed a writ of habeas corpus, making it impossible for the sheriff to return her to Pettis County for trial.

The writ was filed in Judge Strother's court and he set hearing on it for July 9.

Immediately after finding that the information which he had received was false, Barrick issued a new warrant bearing the real name and filed a new information charging assault in the Magistrate Court.

Whether or not the judge upholds the writ Mrs. Walker will be returned to Pettis County for trial on the charge, as the new warrant bears her real name.

The assault charge was filed against Mrs. Walker, under the name of Martin, after she allegedly struck her mother-in-law, Mrs. Lydia Walker, Beaman, at her home.

The information bearing the name of Martin and signed by Mrs. Lydia Martin read: "Vivian Martin did assault one Mrs. Lydia Walker... striking the said Lydia Walker with a three-year-old child, being the daughter of the said Vivian Martin."

The new warrant, issued July 3, bore the name Walker and will be used to pick up Mrs. Vivian Walker if the writ is upheld by Judge Strother.

Indochinese May Talk Independence

PARIS (P)—Prospects for talks on France's offer to negotiate greater independence for the three Associated States of Indochina—Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia—appeared bright today after Laotian officials came out in favor of the proposal. Only the Cambodians seemed reluctant to agree.

The Laotian Premier, Prince Souvanna Phouma, declared in a statement issued here yesterday that he will summon key members of his Cabinet to begin talks as soon as possible. The prince is in France with his father, ailing King Sisavang Vong, who is undergoing treatment at a health resort.

The prince's statement was issued shortly after Viet Nam Chief of State Bao Dai and his government declared their support for the French proposals in a communique issued in Saigon.

Although Premier Pen Nouth of Cambodia apparently is holding out for complete independence, most Indochinese, including Cambodians, reportedly feel that the French offer will lead to actual negotiations. However, the Cambodian monarch, King Norodom Sihanouk, has threatened war against the French unless his demands for full independence are met.

The French proposals received official U. S. backing and Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru welcomed them as "a good step."

A State Department communique issued in Washington expressed the belief "that the way is open for relationships firmly based on mutual interests and common consent which will strengthen the French Union and the ability of the French Union forces to carry out their valiant struggle against Communist aggression."

The French and their associated Indochinese states have been battling Communist-led Vietminh guerrillas for the past seven years. Nehru, a long-time critic of French colonial policy, welcomed the new French offer in a speech yesterday opening a policy conference of his governing All-India Congress party.

"I do not know the details yet," he declared. "I do not know how it will work, but it is a good step. I am convinced that this movement in Indochina is essentially a nationalistic fight for freedom."

The Indian Premier, however, questioned why France had not made similar offers to Tunisia and Morocco, her two North African protectorates. Agitation for independence has led to widespread disorders in both areas.

Leaders Can Disagree With Ike And Go On

WASHINGTON (P)—Congressional leaders apparently don't have to agree with President Eisenhower on all major issues to remain on the Republican administration's team.

Two important members of the legislative squad have come up with criticisms in the last few days but the betting odds are long that the President will ignore the incidents in the interest of future co-operation.

First Sen. Taft of Ohio, the majority leader, termed "too wide open" an administration proposal to give the President authority to dispose of government-held farm surpluses to Allied foreign nations. Taft predicted no such authority would be given.

Then Sen. Knowland of California, acting GOP floor leader while Taft is sidelined with a hip ailment and also chairman of the party policy committee, said South Korean President Syngman Rhee had not been sufficiently consulted in advance about true terms of either the Truman or Eisenhower administrations.

Knowland obviously expected no calldown such as some other presidents might have given a senatorial leader who criticized the administration's course in such delicate negotiations as those being carried on with Rhee.

Some weeks ago, Taft suggested that if the present truce efforts fail, the U. S. should "forget the United Nations" so far as Korea is concerned and hold itself free to act independently in the Far East. Eisenhower, at a news conference, said he disagreed with Taft but did not quarrel with the Ohioan's right to express his views.

Taft always has contended that his support of the new administration leaves him free to criticize proposals that he doesn't like. Eisenhower himself has said he isn't asking the legislative leaders to follow him blindly.

Taft was not consulted about the surplus crop disposal legislation before it was submitted, although Knowland said it was discussed at a White House meeting when the Ohioan was ill and away.

Taft's friends think the measure might have been sent to Capitol Hill in quite different form if he had had a chance to offer his advice before Eisenhower wrapped it up with a message, which brought sharp criticism from many Democrats.

The only congressional leader who has felt the sandpaper of presidential displeasure thus far has been Chairman Daniel A. Reed (R-N.Y.) of the House Ways and Means Committee.

The administration apparently has outmaneuvered Reed to win probable congressional approval of a six-month extension of the excess profits tax—which Eisenhower requested and Reed bitterly opposed.

But there is little doubt in the minds of most of his colleagues that Reed will get special attention from the White House from now on in an effort to keep him on the team.

Release Man After His Niece Disappears

LOS ANGELES (P)—Questioned for three days in connection with the disappearance of his 8-year-old foster cousin, Stella Darlene Nolan, William R. Nolan, 20, was released yesterday by sheriff's officers.

Nolan, an unemployed hospital orderly, was arrested last Friday in Long Beach. Officers said he has been cleared of suspicion in the mysterious disappearance of the girl June 20.

Finally, He Flies Home

NEW YORK (P)—This is the odyssey of Juan Martinez, who started out for Puerto Rico and landed in Newfoundland.

Who repeated his name three times and got three martinis. And who is finally on his way back home with a good-natured view of his adventures or misadventures.

Martinez, a one-legged man of 64, started his wanderings Sunday when he mistakenly boarded a Pan American World Airways plane bound for Germany from Idlewild Airport.

He had been scheduled to depart at the same hour on a Pan American flight for San Juan. Airline officials did not notice that he was getting on the wrong plane.

The big airliner winged its way east on the 4½-hour hop to Gander, Nfld., as Martinez settled into his seat.

Soon a stewardess came along and asked: "Manhattan or martini?"

The Puerto Rican, who speaks only Spanish, thought she was checking his name; so he replied: "Martinez."

He was handed a dry martini. Twice more he was asked the same question, gave the same reply, and received the same refreshment.

When the plane landed at Gander, Martinez promptly noticed that he was in a cooler climate than San Juan.

He made inquiries, and the mistake was uncovered. Airline officials put him up overnight at Gander, and sent him back to New York on the first available flight. He returned here yesterday.

Pan American sent him into Manhattan from Idlewild to spend the day at a hotel, but he was afraid he would be forgotten and he asked to return to Idlewild. The airline agreed.

He sat in a wheelchair at the airport and chatted with other Puerto Ricans. Pan American, which paid the bill for his unexpected wanderings, treated him to dinner.

The airline also notified relatives in Puerto Rico that he was coming, but Martinez said he was sure they were not concerned by the delay. He said:

"After all, they didn't know when I was coming."

Then, just before last midnight, he was put aboard a nonstop flight to San Juan.

Martinez, who has two sons in the Army in Korea, quipped as he boarded the plane:

"This time they'll probably send me to Korea."

Sedalia Bank and Trust Co. Becomes County Depository

A contract was signed Monday by the Sedalia Bank and Trust Company and Pettis County, thru the County Court and the county treasurer and collector, to transfer the county deposits to the Sedalia Bank and Trust Company.

The contract, in the first clause, called for the county treasurer and collector to transfer their funds to the bank.

The second clause stipulated that the bank accept the funds with no interest and make copies of the balance in triplicate when required by the treasurer or collector.

Two accounts, one under the title of "county collector's fund" and the other in the name of the county treasurer, were agreed upon in the third clause.

The fourth clause called for the bank to offer securities for the entire amount of deposits, less $10,000 which is covered by federal deposit insurance.

By agreement of the fifth clause the securities covering the deposits will be placed in a safety deposit box in the bank with the keys to be turned over to the presiding judge of the county court. The sixth clause gives the county the right, through its agents, to sell the securities if funds in the deposits are found short within 15 days after notifying the bank.

The final clause states that the bank may exchange the securities by substituting to the satisfaction of the county treasurer and collector and the county court.

The contract was signed by: Frank L. Wagner, county treasurer; Hazel Palmer, county collector; J. V. Kesterson, presiding judge of the County Court; J. H. Green, county clerk; John Joe McGrath, president of the Sedalia Bank and Trust Company, and E. A. Strelow, secretary of the board of directors of the bank.

ANTS

There's a new and better way to kill ants. It's called Roach Film. When applied to any surface with built-in cap-applier, it leaves a hard, dry, clean, invisible film. The film can't harm or soil any surface; but, when ants touch it, their legs become paralyzed and they die in two hours. A single application remains effective for months. You never see it, but it sure does get rid of ants and roaches! Roach Film is available at W. E. Baer Drug Company.

Some Books Go Back On Shelf After Purge

WASHINGTON — The State Department has directed its overseas libraries to put back on the shelves many volumes removed during the recent purge of books by Communist and controversial authors.

Officials who disclosed this day said the books still banned were named in two master lists, the latest of which was dispatched last week to the approximately 189 libraries in foreign cities. Instructions were to restore volumes not specifically named.

Although the lists have not been made public, informants who may not be named indicated they included more than 50 titles. That would mean the restoration of perhaps more than 50 titles. Officials have said all copies of 300 or more book titles by about 18 authors had been removed. Eleven, reportedly, were literally banned.

The latest order was dispatched, officials said, to end confusion it was acknowledged had resulted from 10 earlier directives. The International Information Administration of the State Department, which has charge of the libraries, has been a target for criticism because of the removal of some books not specifically named in any directives. Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) assailed particularly the removal of "Witness," life story of Whitaker Chambers, showed reformed Communist.

The first directives for book removals went out in February after McCarthy had declared the libraries contained "30,000 Communist books" and said evidently someone had been sabotaging the program.

President Eisenhower yesterday accepted the resignation of the information program's new boss, Dr. Robert L. Johnson, who took command in early spring at the peak of McCarthy's investigations. McCarthy repeatedly has praised Johnson.

Johnson, on leave from the presidency of Temple University in Philadelphia, wrote Eisenhower that physicians had ordered him to give up his post within 30 days.

Eisenhower, in his acceptance of the resignation, said, "We will move with maximum speed to find a new director . . . The name of C. D. Jackson, special assistant to the President in charge of psychological matters, has figured in unofficial speculation about a successor."

Sen. Mundt (R-S.D.), co-author of the law which established the libraries, made a sharp retort in a Senate speech yesterday to critics who have cried out against "book burning."

He said he saw "nothing evenly remotely connected between book burning" and removal of the disputed books. Mundt said the object of the law was to establish limited-purpose reading rooms at information centers overseas where native readers could get free literature that would help promote U. S. foreign policy and combat Communist propaganda.

Disciples Seek Clear Stand On Segregation

PORTLAND, Ore. — The international convention of the Disciples of Christ looked to its committee on recommendations today for a clear-cut position on the racial segregation question.

The answer appeared to rest in what the committee would do about two resolutions striking at discrimination. One asks support of the decision of the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U. S. A. to hold meetings only where public places do not discriminate against race or color.

The second calls for reconsideration of the 1954 convention award to Miami, Fla., because of reports that Negro delegates would be housed separately.

The racial issue popped onto the convention floor unexpectedly yesterday when Walter L. Meyers of San Gabriel, Calif., area representative of the National Benevolent Association, declared the time has not yet come when Negro children can be placed with white youngsters in church-supported homes, or adult Negroes in homes for the aged.

"Where aged people have lived in the segregated pattern all their lives, it would be asking a great deal for them to be crowded into a non-segregated home," Myers said.

The Reverend Paul Stauffer, of Frankfort, Ky., was elected chairman, and Mrs. David Nelson Sutton, West Point, Va., was chosen vice-chairman of the 125-member board of managers of the United Christian Missionary Society last night.

The annual meeting of the society is being held in conjunction with the international convention of Disciples of Christ.

The board of managers named 20 regional representatives on the 1954 nominating committee. It included:

Carlton Garrison, Independence, Kas.; Mrs. L. C. Harriman, Little Rock, Ark.; and Mrs. G. W. Manning, Albany, Mo.

The 1953 nominating committee elected 39 representatives for three year terms expiring in 1956. They included Mrs. Harold G. Barr, Lawrence, Kas., and Mrs. Milton Duvall, Clarksville, Mo.

28 Red Escapes Escape In Korea

PUSAN, Korea. — Twenty-eight North Korean anti-Communist war prisoners escaped last night from Camp No. 2 near Pusan. Two were recaptured, the U. N. Command announced today.

The command said the prisoners crawled through holes cut in the fence of the compound and slid past guards in the dark, rainy night. Guards spotted a few of the prisoners, but were afraid to fire for fear of hitting U. S. personnel sleeping in a nearby hut, the command said.

City Council

Engineer James I. Collins, gave an estimate on the work at 24-cents per square yard. The bids were from the Howard Construction Co., at 24.8 cents while the W. J. Menefee Construction Co. bid was 23½-cents per square yard. The latter bid was accepted by the council.

Engineer Collins, in answer to a query by Councilman Summers if his department was far enough along for the work to start immediately, assured him his department is ready and far enough along to stay ahead of the seal coating work.

Pass Emergency Measure

The ordinance granting the contract to Menefee was passed under an emergency measure when the council was assured the Street Department was ready for the work to begin.

The following ordinances were read for the first time: curbing and guttering of Sunset Drive from Fifth to Broadway; establishing sewer district No. 95; setting the speed limit on Liberty Park boulevard and all streets within boundaries of Liberty Park and the Jennie Jaynes Lewis Recreation area at 12-miles per hour and assessing the punishment for violation at from $5 to $100 fine; prohibiting the parking of motor vehicles on the Liberty Park boulevard from the west end of the park to Limit Ave.; curb and guttering on 14th from Collins to Marvin; accepting the improvement work and materials of a sewer constructed by the J. W. Atkinson Construction Co., in sewer district No. 90, the cost of the construction being $7,883; establishing a stop and go electric traffic signal at 16th and Grand; and establishing sewer district No. 97.

The following ordinances were read for the third time and passed by the council: establishing stop signs at the northeast and southwest corner of Sixth and Emmett; approving the curb and guttering on East Seventh between Emmett and Babcock, the work to be done by J. W. Atkinson Construction Co.; curb and guttering on Warren from 18th to 20th.

Bids on New Fire Truck

Councilman Harry Moore, chairman of the Fire and Water Committee, reported the specifications for a new fire truck are being completed and should be ready within a few days. Bids will be asked on the purchase of the truck to be opened on Monday, July 20.

A request by Councilman White for the placing of a street light on Magnolia, between Grand and Harrison, was approved by the council.

Councilman Schwarz reported the airport beacon tower was being erected, the first section placed this week.

Mayor Studer stated he felt the council should give some consideration and thought to troubles which arisen over the shooting of fireworks in Sedalia. He explained the police had received between 75 and 100 complaints during the past several days, especially over the 3rd, 4th, and 5th of July, of disturbances caused by the practice.

Discuss Fireworks

He also said that to enforce the law cannot be done because of the lack of officers. "Children have been burned with fireworks and we are lucky some were not hurt worse or even killed," Mayor Studer said.

Mayor Studer called attention to the fireworks fire in Kansas City where two people were killed and "I recommend the abandonment of the sale and shooting of fireworks within the city limits of Sedalia," he said.

"We may be criticized by some and some children may be unhappy, but Sedalians did not respect the sick and constantly fired the fire crackers around homes where there were sick people and around the Bothwell Hospital. It was not only in the daytime, but up to the late and four o'clock in the mornings," Mayor Studer concluded.

Councilman Summers remarked, "this has been up before, it's been a hot potato, but last week I rode downtown and saw people throwing firecrackers out of cars and at each other on the streets. The shooting of fireworks has become a great hazard. The people have hurt themselves in these Fourth of July celebrations."

"I don't like to see legislation passed to legislate against an evil, but when we see our children hurt by fireworks, I think it's time to do something about it. I move the council draw up an ordinance to prohibit the sale and shooting of fireworks," Councilman Summers concluded.

Councilman Kelley then asked the motion to be amended to have the ordinance to read "fireworks displays to be permitted by sponsoring organizations, et al, when fired by professional people for public display. Permission to be granted over the signature of the fire chief and mayor."

The motion and amendment were carried.

The reports of the various city officials for the month of June were read and approved.

Handle At Airport Post

Mayor Studer presented the name of George Handley to the council to be manager of the Sedalia Memorial Airport. The appointment was unanimously approved by the council.

Councilman Wolf was ordered to draft an ordinance covering the appointment.

Councilman Dr. Ira White proposed a board to govern the operation of the airport, similar to the Bothwell Hospital Board, with qualifications being persons who have held or are now holding pilot's licenses. "We should have men who have knowledge of aviation on this board," he explained. He moved an ordinance be drawn creating the board and this was seconded by Councilman Arthur Schwarz. The motion was unanimously passed.

Three petitions for property owners to enter sewer manholes with sewers from their property were granted to those residing in the vicinity of 13th and Warren; and Sneed on 12th and at 12th and Park; and on Barrett near Fifth.

The following licenses were renewed for the sale of 3.2 beer, Violet Miller at 317 West Pettis, Keith Stivers for Pete's Pig Pen, 420 South Osage; Wholesale beer to the Stevens Coal and Ice Co., Fifth and the M-K-T tracks; retail of 5-percent beer to Jack's Tavern, 111 West Main; liquor by the drink to Henry's Tavern, 701 West Main, W. B. Rissler for 201 West Main, and Andy's Tavern, 211 South Ohio.

OK Sewer District

Councilman John Carroll read a petition from property owners on Johnson and Henry streets in the vicinity of Montclair for a sewer district. An ordinance was ordered drawn.

Permission was granted to C. W. Stephenson to enter the sewer manhole at Seventh and Warren for three homes he plans to build in this vicinity.

A discussion arose over the placing of stop signs at 11th and Barrett. Chief of Police Edgar Neighbors was called upon and he said there were many such signs about the town, some good and some bad, but suggested it be investigated. Mayor Studer appointed a committee of C. L. Kelley, Aubrey Case, Elmer Summers and Dr. Ira White of the Street and Alley and Police Committees to investigate the various signs and applications for such stop signs.

Councilman Garrison said that he didn't want to be one to remove any stop signs and later have some child killed because the lack of it. He then suggested the city place speed limit signs on main traveled streets to keep not only Sedalians informed of our speed laws, but also to let tourists know the speed limit.

Attention was called to a light which had burned out at the ball park at Center Park. Mayor Studer asked the Missouri Public Service Co. be notified to replace the bulb.

For Viaduct Repair

Councilman Garrison also called attention to the bad condition of the Washington viaduct which needed repairing. It was referred to the city engineer for action.

Residents in the vicinity of Fifth and State Fair Blvd., asked about the street lights on the boulevard and a fire plug which was supposed to have been placed there. Others called attention to the sewer ditch which had stagnant water standing in it and asked that something be done. Mayor Studer ordered an investigation.

An explanation as to curb and guttering on 16th, north to 18th on Quincy, was given by Councilman Kelley who said it was necessary to have a permanent street before a drainage problem could be controlled. He also reported some residents had demonstrated against the proposal made a year ago.

Praise for Whittier

Mayor Studer paid tribute to residents in Southeast Sedalia, many of whom belong to the Whittier Parent-Teacher Association, for the fine recreation program they have been carrying on at the school play grounds. He also paid tribute to the members of the Sedalia Park Board for the way they have fixed up the park and for the fine celebration held during the Fourth of July.

He also complimented Charles Simon for the manner in which he has started the new restaurant ordinance to working, and for the excellent inspections conducted by personnel of the Sedalia Air Force Base and the State Health Dept., in working with the city inspector.

"These people need to be recognized for the fine service they have been giving the community," Mayor Studer said.

The city bills were read and approved as follows:

Fire Department, $154.57; Public Buildings Committee, $857.24; Sewer and Sanitation Dept., $2,999.58; Police Dept., $800.69; Street and Alley Dept., $1,587.73; Hospital No. 2, $243.79; Contingent Acct., $3,174.64; Lights and Water, $5,410.48; and Contingent Bonded Acct., $12.00 a total of $15,141.72.

Dish of Ice Cream Costs Her $18,000

JERSEY CITY, N. J. — An 83-year-old spinster went out for a dish of ice cream yesterday and it cost her $18,000.

Here, according to police, is what happened to Miss Nellie Drain:

Feeling in the need of a cold refreshment, Miss Drain left her apartment for some ice cream at a nearby soda fountain.

She passed the time of day with a woman sitting on the next stool when a third woman joined them. The new arrival breathlessly told of finding a large sum of money and of giving it to her boss in a nearby office building for safekeeping.

Her boss advised against turning over the money to police since there were betting slips with it and they might suspect her, she said.

The woman offered to share the find with Miss Drain if she would put up money to show good faith.

That sounded fair to Miss Drain so, accompanied by one of her new-found acquaintances, she went to a New York bank, withdrew $18,000 savings and handed it over to her companion. That left Miss Drain with $1,000.

When they got back to Jersey City the woman said she had to meet her friend at the boss' office and complete the deal. The $18,000 went with her.

Miss Drain waited and waited and waited and then called police.

CONSTRUCTION WORKERS GET "TOP DOLLAR"—If you're wondering about the high cost of housing, one of the answers could be the high hourly pay building trade workers get. Above Newschart shows the average hourly rates earned by union construction workers from 1951 to the present. All seven crafts have increased their pay steadily with plasterers leading the parade at $2.88 an hour. Data from U.S. Department of Labor.

Hal Boyle's Column--

Veterans Look Back This Week 10 Years to Sicily Invasion

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Our anniversaries often creep upon us like sneak thieves in the night, and startle us.
Scores of thousands of American veterans, grayer and paunchier now, will glance at a calendar this week, blink in surprise, and think: "Why, it's 10 years since we went into Sicily."
So long ago already! And yet as they look back, the years will fall away like moments. And, like a dream in technicolor, they will see themselves as they were then... younger... stronger... trudging through swirling white dust clouds to a fast, clean, well-fought victory.
And if two or more of them get together, they will wear out the night—and the patience of their wives—recalling the little things about war that never get in the history books but live forever in soldiers' minds.
"You know there never was dust like that Sicily dust. I still cough every time I think of it."
"Yeah, I was so thirsty once I crawled out into a field to get some watermelons and got my helmet creased by a sniper on the way back. I was plenty dumb to do it—but, remember, how those watermelons tasted?"
"Yep, and remember how old Patton lost his head and slapped a private?"
"Sure do, I thought he was a real S. O. B. at the time. But you know later I was with his Third Army in France, and I got to think he was a helluva fine guy—for a general. He was all man—that one."
And Patton was all man, one who might miff a play but never lost a ball game. The errors he made were made while he was on his feet—trying to win. Defeat never was in his mind. He could conceive of nothing but victory.
The conquest of Sicily was superbly executed in 38 days by Gen. Patton's Seventh Army and Field Marshal Montgomery's British Eighth Army. It was the first campaign by Americans organized as an army—we had only a corps in Tunisia—and they never lost the taste of success gained there, or forgot the lessons learned. The overall price was cheap.
I like to look back at Sicily because it was there I got to know well three men I hold, for their special qualities, a lifelong respect: Gen. Patton, for stubborn courage; Gen. Bradley, for Gibraltar integrity; Ernie Pyle, for human understanding.
I remember, as we sailed toward Sicily, the brief ceremony at which Patton's Seventh Army flag—his first—was unfurled, and the fire of pride in his eyes. It was to him not a ship deck he stood upon but a peak of glory.
I remember later, visiting him ashore, and finding him in a towering rage. He held up an army poster, showing a soldier with an intrenching tool, that warned in big letters: "Dig or die."
"That is the way to get soldiers killed," Patton cried angrily, in his high shrill voice. "Once they dig in they freeze—and then you have to go up and kick them out of their foxholes to get them moving again."
Patton always held an army suffers fewer casualties rolling forward in attack than if it halts and digs in.

I never saw "Georgie" Patton slap anybody, but in a hospital in Palermo I saw him honor a young medic who had severed his own shattered arm, and then crawled on to rescue another wounded soldier.
"I have pinned medals on many brave men," Patton told the boy, "but none braver than you."
Then, close to tears, he wheeled and stomped out. Georgie was a real sentimentalist about men hurt under his command. In Tunisia he wept openly at the news of the death in combat of his young aide.
On the morning of Aug. 17, I walked with an infantry patrol into Messina, the end of the line in Sicily. Montgomery's crestfallen tankers rolled in two hours later amid Yank cries of:
"Where you tourists been?"
Gen. Patton rode in himself soon after. German gunners, firing from across the Messina straits, tried to destroy his motorcade but didn't upset Patton. He was still grinning when he rode back out of town. All along he had been racing to beat Montgomery into Messina, and was proud his troops had reached there first—and on foot, at that.
Only 10 years ago? Wonder what's doing on Pork Chop Ridge in Korea?

'The Drunkard' Into 21st Year

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — Tonight "The Drunkard" staggers into its 21st straight year of entertaining Los Angeles theater goers.

Lake Oke, Miss River, Satchel Paige and Gloria Swanson, it just keeps rolling along.

On a warm July 6 evening in the depression year of 1933, a group of players put on an embalmers melodrama that was first presented by P. T. Barnum in 1850. They performed "The Drunkard" in a small, out-of-the-way theater that first nighters had trouble locating. The first performance was cheered by the audience, but then it consisted largely of the performers' friends.

On the second night, five tickets were sold.

But "The Drunkard" began to gain in popularity, thanks to the talk of pleased patrons plus some advertising. Theatrical historians now have to change their records every year.

"The Drunkard" has lasted longer than any show in memory of man. The New York record is held by "Life With Father" with 3,123. "The Drunkard's" 7450 performances as of last night make "Father" seem like a boy.

Operating this amazing enterprise is one of the few female theatrical producers in the country. She is Mildred Ilse, a businesslike woman with two grown sons and a devotion to "The Drunkard." She was a tyro to show business when some friends interested her in helping to put on the show in 1933. She did it as a lark, never believing it would end up as a lifetime venture.

"We thought it might go for a month or six weeks," she remarked. "But it just wouldn't stop."

Mrs. Ilse, whose husband is a telephone company official and also a fan of the show, said "The Drunkard's" elements of success were a matter of circumstance.

"We had planned to put on the show in a theater," she recalled, "but we couldn't find one. Finally we came across the Theater Mart, which had been used for little theater attractions. The only trouble was that it had a flat floor and plain chairs. You couldn't ask people to sit that way, but they wouldn't mind if they sat at tables."

"If we had tables, we had to put something on them. That's how we happened to serve refreshments."

"At first we merely put on the melodrama, doing it in the same manner as it was originally presented. The trouble was that people wouldn't go home. They were having such a good time they wanted to stay. So we started the olio, or vaudeville show. The people enjoyed that so much that they wanted to sing. We started the community sing at each performance."

Mrs. Ilse is constantly pumping adrenalin into the rum-soaked "Drunkard." New numbers and performers are often added to the olio, which account for the large number of repeaters in the audience. The cast is now rehearsing a musical version of the melodrama which will be sprung on the public in a week or so.

How long can "The Drunkard" keep going?

"I don't know," sighed Mrs. Ilse. "It never ceases to amaze me."

Paris Designer Files Suit Over Copying Of His Dress Creations

TURIN, Italy — Parisian dress designer Jacques Fath has filed a damage suit here against a Turin fashion house he accuses of "copying and counterfeiting" one of his creations.

Fath is suing a firm directed by Mrs. Nina Bressi Mugnier. Court officials said he also sued a magazine which he alleged published a picture of the dress and credited the Turin firm—both Fath—with its creation. The name of the magazine was not announced.

May Have to Put Homes on Meters—

Lincoln's New Water System Being Taxed Thru Big Usage of City's Equipment

LINCOLN — Somewhere in the neighborhood of 40,000 gallons of water per day are being used by Lincoln's 331 inhabitants according to city officials. With the prolonged drought and light machinery of the water system, now being overworked, a problem has arisen on how much longer will the machinery continue to work under these conditions.

The water system was installed three years ago after one of the most disastrous fires in the city's history. The fire, which destroyed the Thomas Garage and MFA's International Harvester building had an estimated loss of $90,000. The total cost of the system, which amounted to about $45,000, was obtained through a bond issue. A sum of $6,000 was saved when the city decided to assess residents a minimum of $1.53 per month including tax and $2.00 or more for modern homes, garages, restaurants and etc., thus eliminating the need for water meters.

Carl Rambo, who has been elected to take charge of the pump and other machinery which, with ordinary use, is expected to last a number of years. He also sees that the 50,000 gallon tower is kept filled to capacity.

The engine is now required to be kept running at top speed ten to twelve hours daily to provide the city's water requirements.

Officials hesitate to install water meters, but fear that some measure will have to be taken if people continue to use water for unnecessary purposes, such as irrigating constantly.

Carver National Monument To Be Dedicated Tuesday

DIAMOND, Mo. — A Negro who as a boy was ransomed for a $300 racehorse will be honored next Tuesday in the dedication of a national monument.

He is George Washington Carver, noted agricultural scientist who produced more than 500 by-products of peanuts, sweet potatoes and pecans.

It will be the first such tribute to a Negro. And the first to any man for his service to agriculture.

The ceremonies will bring national and state officials to the 210-acre farm two miles west of here, where Carver was born a slave. A plaque and bust of the scientist will be unveiled.

Secretary of the Interior McKay will be the principal speaker. Others on the program will include Rep. Dewey Short (R-Mo.); Gov. Phil M. Donnelly; Howard W. Baker of the National Park Service and Dr. A. J. Phillips, of the George Washington Carver Foundation.

For Rep. Short, the ceremonies will be the fulfillment of a move he and former President Truman, then a senator, began in 1941. They introduced measures calling for establishment of a national monument.

Their efforts failed, but the day after Carver's death, Jan. 5, 1943, they reintroduced the measures which were approved. But because of the war and other delays, it was not until last summer the tract was acquired for $55,000.

About 50 acres of the tract is woodland. Part of the farm will be leased for agriculture to help defray the cost of the monument. The cabin where Carver was born is long since gone, as is the main house owned by his master, Moses Carver. The stone house erected by a later owner, is now occupied by Arthur Jacobson, the park's first superintendent, and his family.

Occupying a frame house on the place is R. B. Fuller, Joplin, Carver historian, and his wife.

Carver's birthdate is in doubt. He, himself, said he thought it was 1864, but census records indicate it was four years earlier.

During guerilla warfare on the Missouri-Kansas border, Carver and his mother were carried away.

WASHINGTON — Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) kept members of his Senate investigations subcommittee guessing today about what he will do to counter their attacks on the group's new staff chief.

Three Democrats and a Republican, a majority of the subcommittee's members, have been sharply critical of J. B. Matthews, the staff chief, for writing in a magazine article that Protestant clergymen are "the largest single group supporting the Communist apparatus in the United States today."

McCarthy, whose office said he was out of the city all day yesterday, called his six fellow members to a closed meeting today without mentioning the controversy. He allowed only 30 minutes for the session before a scheduled hearing.

Senators Potter (R-Mich), McClellan (D-Ark), Symington (D-Mo) and Jackson (D-Wash) have questioned whether Matthews should remain on the staff. All four senators declared they do not believe what Matthews wrote.

McCarthy has emphasized another line in Matthews' article which said, "The vast majority of American Protestant clergymen are loyal."

"This is hardly an attack upon the Protestant clergy," was McCarthy's last word on it before leaving for a long week end at some unannounced point.

Mexico In Trouble With Art Treasures

MEXICO CITY — Mexico is having a hard time getting its million-dollar art exhibit back where it belongs.

The exhibit toured Europe for 2½ years without mishap. But when it returned home:

1. The locomotive of a special train bringing the exhibit from Vera Cruz to the capital broke down. Eleven guards had to stand duty overnight.

2. When the special train finally arrived here yesterday, it was raining so hard the famed art treasures could not be moved back home to the Palace of Fine Arts. The guards went back on duty.
